

On June 21, 1967, at the age of 17, Lucy Winer was committed to the female violent ward of Kings Park State Hospital following a series of failed suicide attempts. Over 30 years later Lucy returned to Kings Park for the first time which sparked a decade-long effort to face her past and learn the story of the now abandoned institution that once held her captive.

A documentary with great relevance for today, Kings Park brings to light our nation's current crisis in mental health care and helps us to understand how we got here. Revealing the lessons of the past as a means of generating open discourse, discussions of Kings Park offers a platform from which we can face the challenges of the present and imagine the possibilities of the future.
